Legal Activism, 37 cases won

⁶ I have previously been rejected because the majority members of a board of directors were members of a secret society investigated by the Commission of Inquiry that I headed and another company that complained that disclosure should have been made about `potential assassination attempts and risks to fellow employees` because of my record of having investigated National and Military Intelligence Services. This was considered to be a somewhat hysterical response by some employment advisors.

Health

Chronic Rickettsia –

Recent trip to South Africa funded by a brother who wanted assistance with litigation. Had to resile due to serious credibility issues implicit in the litigation.

(Please refer to Dr Jadin`s medical report, lab results and letter attached hereto.)

Diagnosed with: -

1. Rickettsia Mooseri,
2. Endemic Typhus,
3. Borreliosis (Lyme Disease),
4. Mycoplasma pneumoniae,
5. Trachomatis,
6. Q fever,
7. Various other markers

Symptoms

Debilitating Chronic Fatigue Syndrome (CFS)

(See attached certificates of Dr. A Kolesky and Jadin)

Patient with Debilitating CFS wake up feeling tired and fatigued and the condition can get worse during the day to the point of debilitation: -

Breeding cycles of parasites and bacteria varies and typically debilitates the patient from 4 to six hours a day.

Ancillary symptoms

1. Muscle and joint pain,
2. Fever headache,
3. Malaise,
4. Nausea,
5. Vomiting,
6. Swollen lymph nodes typical to fibromyalgia,
7. Memory loss,
8. Depression

Treatment regime

6 courses of heavy pulsive antibiotic and probiotic support treatment for seven days with two-week recovery periods. (see attached prescriptions).

18 weeks (4 and a half months) all up

Current studies

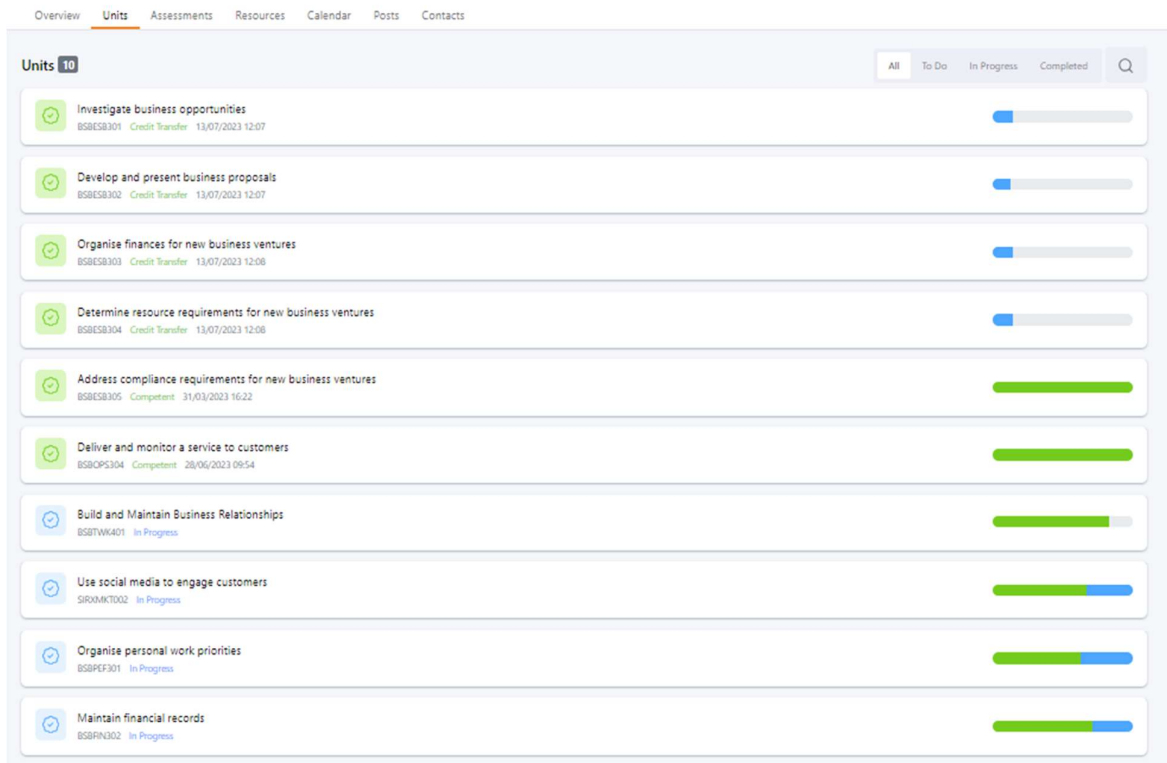

Certificate III in Entrepreneurship and New Business -

BSB30220 —

M&I International Distribution¹⁰

Boomer anchors to UAE

1. MOU signed with introduction agent in Abu Dhabi UAE.
2. Distribution agreement with buyer pending.
3. Payment pending.

¹⁰ <https://mandidistribution.com/>

4. Invitation to present in Vietnam and through a diplomat to Indonesia.
5. $ 6,000 profit split between 3 partners making $ 2,000 profit
6. A possible second round on the RSA deal.

Pratliperl

1. R&D underway,
2. Distribution agreement offered by big corporate in South Africa.
3. Monetary obligations and implications of offer to be discussed at the next partners meeting.

IRFF¹¹

1. Finance expected from November 2024 to March 2025 dependent on USA political outcomes.
2. Vanuatu pivot
 - a. Abattoir sale failed
 - b. Two properties identified by our intermediary in Vanuatu.

Handyman work

Handyman trailer with range of tools

1. Occasional work not ideal because the physical exertion cannot be sustained during down cycles.

Bunnings assembly assistance etc.

2. This approach is yet to be made

Camron Lodge quote

3. This quote was approved by the body corporate and when completed will generate $1, 400.00
 - a. Completion should take 10 days that will need to be found in upcycles and good weather.

ZAKSLAB - Entertainment¹²

4. Gig planned with landlord for the end of March 2024
 - a. This will require rehearsals for the new repertoire

¹¹ <https://irff.online/>

¹² <https://zakslab.weebly.com/>

Current focus and priorities

Camron lodge quote completion

– immediate income relief – will assist in repayments of loans for medicine and tests.

M&I

– income in a months' time or thereabouts as detailed previously about $ 2,000.00

Start medication

6 courses of seven days with two-week recovery 4,5 months

This will make manual work all but impossible for that period

Focus

The idea is to focus on developing M&I and Pratliperl if the substantial R&D required for the latter justifies it.

Pratliperl

Could provide contingent income if large clients can be obtained such as some of the main concrete and cement manufacturers. To succeed in this substantive R&D needs to be conducted to determine cost / benefit ratio`s following enhanced regulatory provisions to manage recent concerns about bushfires and lithium battery fires.

Mozelli

Was offered to be a representative for this mini module nuclear plant company in South Africa. Whilst at first writing it off as highly unlikely for Australia, the fact that Peter Dutton is now pushing had for such plants I shall sign their agreement with the partners in M&I.

IRFF long term

A very substantial amount of work has been done on this initiative See www.irff.online. More work is needed to pivot the initiative properly for the newly identified Vanuatu properties.

Best use of skill set

OCRD and legal recourse - preliminary R&D

Question 1

Given that when a state has such an obsession with its own regulations that it does not recognise the achievements and certifications held by persons from other (outside) states, and that such behaviour might most likely cause resentment in such affected individuals. (1) How would you, as one of those affected individuals, describe the subsequent state's abuse in social, legal and political terms? (2) What medical and psychotic condition such as for example Obsessive Compulsive Regulation Disorder (OCRD) would you ascribe to the state. Moreover, (3) what medical and psychological condition would you scribed to the affected individual in not wanting to interact with individuals and corporations that manifest OCRD?

Perplexity AI response to question on state's OCRD

The situation described suggests a complex interplay between social, legal, and medical factors. As an affected individual, you might perceive the state's behaviour as a form of regulatory protectionism, leading to social and legal exclusion. In medical terms, while there is no formal diagnosis of "Obsessive Compulsive Regulation Disorder (OCRD)" in the psychological or psychiatric literature, the state's behaviour could be metaphorically likened to obsessive-compulsive disorder (OCD) in its inflexible adherence to regulations and reluctance to recognize external certifications [1][3][4]. This metaphorical comparison is not a formal diagnosis but rather an illustrative analogy.

As for the affected individual's response, their reluctance to engage with entities manifesting OCRD-like behaviour could be seen as a natural reaction to protect their well-being and mental health. This response might be associated with increased stress, anxiety, and potential avoidance behaviours, which could be indicative of the impact of the state's behaviour on the affected individual's mental health.

However, it's important to note that assigning a specific medical or psychological condition to the affected individual would require a comprehensive assessment by a qualified (an appropriate³⁸) (added) mental health professional.

³⁸ Where the individual is an avid adherent to the Judaeo Christian bases of our modern civilization and someone who has covenanted with the redemption sacrifice by the benefactor of today's date, viz. Jesus Christ, then that assessment would necessarily have to be conducted by someone of similar beliefs and convictions in order to eliminate any bias or discreditation of the result of the inquiry.

The individual's response could potentially be linked to stress-related disorders, anxiety, or trauma-related conditions, especially if they have experienced significant distress due to the state's behaviour [2][5].

In summary, while the state's behaviour may be metaphorically compared to OCD in its inflexible regulatory approach, it's essential to approach the medical and psychological impact on the affected individual with caution, as specific diagnoses should only be made by qualified professionals following a thorough evaluation.

Question 2

What grounds in Australian law (especially in terms of the Human Rights Act 2019 of Queensland) could such an affected individual have against the state? Not only for human rights violations, but also in respect of defamation, libel, calumny and monetary compensation for trauma and financial loss etc.?

Answer

In Australian law, especially under the Human Rights Act 2019 of Queensland, an affected individual could seek recourse against the state for potential human rights violations and other legal claims. The Human Rights Act 2019 of Queensland protects 23 fundamental human rights and requires each arm of the government to act compatibly with these rights [1][3]. If an individual believes that their human rights have been infringed, they can make a complaint to the Queensland Human Rights Commission (QHRC) after lodging a complaint with the relevant public entity [1]. The Act provides a framework for addressing human rights issues and seeking redress for violations.

In addition to human rights claims, the affected individual could potentially pursue legal action against the state for defamation, libel, or calumny if they have been subject to false and damaging statements. As for seeking monetary compensation for trauma and financial loss, this would typically fall under the purview of civil litigation, where the affected individual could file a lawsuit against the state to seek damages for the harm suffered.

It's important to note that pursuing these legal avenues would require the guidance of legal professionals with expertise in human rights law, defamation, and civil litigation. Each case is unique, and the specific grounds for legal action would depend on the individual circumstances and the nature of the alleged harm.

In summary, under the Human Rights Act 2019 of Queensland, an affected individual has avenues to address potential human rights violations and other legal claims against the state. Seeking redress for such grievances would involve following the procedures outlined in the Act and potentially engaging legal counsel to pursue defamation, libel, calumny, and compensation claims.

Question 3

What agencies (state, international, NGO`s and private) can an affected person approach for legal assistance in a case against the state on such grounds? (Especially, should the abuse inherent in the state`s recalcitrance in recognising such an effected person`s past achievements and qualifications and thereby sabotaging his or her chances of regaining my financial independence from the state itself (arguably manipulative and collusive), then the prospect of litigating for damages should certainly provide hope of some sort of redress of wrongs, vindication and financial compensation).

Answer

In Queensland, an affected individual seeking legal assistance in a case against the state on grounds of defamation, human rights violations, and financial compensation may approach various agencies, including state, international, non-governmental organizations (NGOs), and private entities.

1. State Agencies:

- *Queensland Human Rights Commission (QHRC):

The QHRC handles complaints related to human rights violations under the Human Rights Act 2019 of Queensland. They provide a mechanism for addressing human rights issues and seeking redress for violations [4].

- *Legal Aid Queensland:

This agency provides legal assistance and support for individuals who may not be able to afford a lawyer. They offer services in various legal matters, including human rights and defamation [4].

2. International and NGO Agencies:

- Australian Human Rights Commission:

While not specific to Queensland, the Australian Human Rights Commission handles complaints related to human rights violations at the federal level. They provide guidance and support on human rights issues [5].

- Amnesty International Australia:

This NGO focuses on human rights advocacy and may provide support or guidance on cases involving human rights violations [2].

3. Private Legal Firms:

- Engaging a private legal firm with expertise in defamation, human rights law, and civil litigation can also be instrumental in pursuing legal action against the state for damages and vindication.

It's important for the affected individual to seek legal advice from professionals with expertise in the relevant areas of law to understand the options available and to pursue the appropriate course of action. Each case is unique, and the specific agencies or entities approached for assistance would depend on the nature of the claims and the expertise required.

Question 4

What are the legal remedies for defamation, libel, and calumny in Australia

Answer

In Australia, the legal remedies for defamation, libel, and calumny are primarily governed by the Defamation Act 2005. The Act provides the following remedies in an action for defamation:

1. Compensatory Damages:

This includes compensation for the harm suffered as a result of the defamation, such as damage to reputation, hurt feelings, and economic loss.

2. Injunction:

The court may grant an injunction to stop further publication of the defamatory statements.

3. Correction or Retraction:

The court may order the defendant to publish a correction or retraction of the defamatory statements.

4. Punitive Damages:

In certain cases, involving flagrant disregard, the court may award punitive damages [1].

Additionally, individuals in Australia can seek legal assistance from various sources, including state, international, non-governmental organizations (NGOs), and private entities. Some of these sources include:

1. State Agencies:

- Legal Aid Commissions: Each state in Australia has its own Legal Aid Commission, which provides legal assistance and support for individuals who may not be able to afford a lawyer. They offer services in various legal matters, including defamation.

2. Private Legal Firms:

- Engaging a private legal firm with expertise in defamation law can also be instrumental in pursuing legal action against defamation, libel, and calumny.

It's important for individuals to seek legal advice from professionals with expertise in defamation law to understand the specific remedies available in their situation and to pursue the appropriate course of action. Each case is unique, and the specific agencies or entities approached for assistance would depend on the nature of the claims and the expertise required.

 A patient of this practice since 23/11/2020

Primary condition

Diagnosis — List the main medical conditions which impact on the patient's capacity to work or study.
(Primary condition should be the condition with the most impact.)

Rickettsia - Diagnosed in 2003
 Chronic Rickettsia diagnosed in late 2020

Date of onset (if known): 23/11/2020

In this condition - Tick one only
 Temporary Permanent Temporary exacerbation of a permanent condition
(likely to persist for 2 years or more)

Prognosis — Estimate how long the symptoms will affect the patient's capacity to work or study.
 Less than 3 months 3-12 months 13-24 months Uncertain
 More than 24 months

Symptoms — List current symptoms for each condition.

Muscular and joint pain, chronic fatigue syndrome. Multiple cycles per week reported by patient

Treatment — Describe the patient's treatment regime, including past, current and planned treatment.

Past: Antibiotics like Doxycycline, antiparasitics & HCQ
 Current: As above. Resistance to Doxycycline has developed.
 Access to certain medications are currently limited

Dear Colleague

Re: Izak Labuschagne

Izak came to see me 2003 presenting with excessive mental and physical fatigue, memory and concentration loss and joint pain.

After extensive investigation he was found positive for Rickettsia mooseri , Q fever, Mycoplasma, Chlamydia trachomatis. Ferritin levels were elevated to 488.

My treatment for this condition consists of seven days of a pulsed antibiotic therapy, alternated and combined, every month until symptoms and biological testing normalise. Last treatment he received was in 2006 in November and reported that he was well.

He came to see me again in 2012. Tests were repeated and he was positive for Rickettsia mooseri and conori, Q fever, Chlamydia trachomatis and pneumonia, Mycoplasma. He was prescribed three treatments. He was last seen at the end of 2012.

Izak sent an email requesting a skype consultation but we could not get through – email revealed chronic pain in his feet, legs and into the small of his back. As I have been unable to speak with him or see him I have reluctantly sent two scripts to assist him and hopefully I will be able to speak with him in the new year.

There is no alternative for Lymecycline. I shall forward my protocol . I hope that this has been of some assistance.

Yours sincerely

Dr C Jadin

To Whom It May Concern

Re: Izak Labuschagne - 18th August 1959

Izak came to see me on 24th November 2023 presenting with chronic mental and physical fatigue, severe joint and muscle pain especially in his legs and loss of memory and concentration. He has been a patient of mine since 2003 and was successfully treated in 2003 and 2004. He had a return visit in 2012 and two treatments in 2019.

Blood tests were repeated during his current visit in order for me to assess his condition and treat accordingly. However he is unable to pay for these tests and I would be grateful for your time and consideration in this matter. Your support in covering the costs of these essential blood tests would not only alleviate a significant financial burden but also contribute to the overall improvement of Izak's health and well being. I have not yet received the results which will take approximately 8 days to be returned.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Yours sincerely

Dr Cecile Jadin
